

Moon near Regulus and Saturn from Brno on Feb 20/21 2008, each 2 h, in CEST. Segments of ecliptics are 2.5 degrees long.

The row of circles crossing the ecliptics denotes geocentric lunar positions and angular sizes.

Gray circles shifted with respect to white ones are visible positions of Moon when above horizon, "attracted" to it by parallax.