

This figure is a scatter plot of astronomical data points, likely stars, plotted against two dimensions. The points are represented by black circles of varying sizes, indicating their brightness or stellar magnitude. A horizontal dotted line at the bottom serves as a reference for the magnitude limit. The text ' < 6.50 mag' is located in the bottom right corner, specifying the selection criteria for the data points shown.

< 6.50 mag