

A scatter plot showing the distribution of stars. The plot features approximately 18 stars of varying sizes, represented by solid black circles of different diameters. One star in the upper-left quadrant is represented by an open circle. The stars are scattered across the field, with a notable concentration in the lower-left and central regions. The largest star is located in the lower-left area, while the smallest stars are found in the upper-right and central-right areas.

< 3.50 mag