

Join us at a Natural Building Work/Party!

Gain hands-on experience helping with natural building techniques.

Saturday and Sunday

9:00 am to 5:00 pm

August 13th & 14th

August 20th & 21st 2011

at the Black Range Lodge
in Kingston, NM

Projects will include:

Strawbale, cob, and stone wall construction, earthen floor installation, natural clay plasters, working with wood. Learn about passive solar design, solar cooking, solar hot water, rainwater harvesting, and composting toilets.

Work/party leaders are:

Natural builders from Austin, Texas, including Frank Meyer, Sara Schmidt, Brad King, and Aaron Ralls.

Plus Derek Roff and Catherine Wanek, co-directors of Builders Without Borders, and Asher Gelbart of Green Energy Now.

The work/party fee (including lunch) is:

$60 / day individual -- $90 / weekend

$90 / day couple -- $150/ weekend

Registration is limited to 25 people. Free camping in the Gila National Forest, or stay at the Black Range Lodge.

The lodge has been a center for strawbale and natural building information since 1995.

Proceeds will benefit Builders Without Borders, a non-profit organization.
